Lawyers continue protest over judge's transfer

(By K Surendra Babu)

Hyderabad, Sept 5: Protest by lawyers of the Telangana High Court over the transfer of Justice P.V. Saniav Kumar continued for a third consecutive day on Thursday

On a call given by Telangana Bar Association, the lawyers boy-cotted their duties to de-mand that the Supreme Court Collegium withdraw its recommendation to transfer Justice Saniay Kumar to the Punjab and Haryana High Court. Justice Sanjay Kumar is the senior-most judge after the Chief Justice and the lawyers are demand-ing that instead of transferring him to Punjab and Haryana High Court, where he will be 12th place in seniority list, he should be elevated to the post of Chief Justice of any appropriate high court.

The protesting law-yers took out a rally and staged a protest at the main entrance. The protest affected the proceedings in the court.

Lawyers of some lower courts in Telangana also joined the protest against the transfer of the judge. The Bar Council resolved to continue boycott of the courts until the Collegium withdraws its recmendation.

The protesting lawyers have termed the decision of the Collegium as "aunfair". They said it should not pick someone of its choice for top positions in the judiciary.

Telangana Bar Asso-ciation president T Surya Karan Reddy said they would meet President of India and Chief Justice of

He said the boycott of courts would continue till Saturday and they would decide future course of action on Monday.

Meanwhile, advocated of Andhra Pradesh High Court also extended solidarity with their Telangana counterparts their by staying away from du-ties on Thursday.

They will continue their protest on Friday.

At 74, woman is the oldest to give birth

Guntur, Sept 5: A 74year-old woman has be-came the oldest-ever to give birth after she delivered twins at a hospital in Andhra Pradesh's Guntur town on Thursday, doctors have said.

Mangayamma, who conceived through In Vitro Fertilisation (IVF) process, delivered twin babies at Ahalya Nursing Home here. A team comprising four doctors per-formed the caesarean op-eration. S. Umashankar, who headed the team of doctors, said both the mother and the babies were doing well."This is a medical miracle," Umashankar told reporters after the surgery. He claimed that Mangayamma has be-come the oldest woman in the world to give birth. Earlier, 70-year-old Daljinder Kaur was con-sidered to be the oldest woman in the world to give birth to a baby. Kaur of Haryana delivered a baby boy in 2016 following an IVF process. Hailing from Nelapartipadu in East Godavari district, Mangayamma was childless after 54 years of mar-riage. She along with her husband Y. Raja Rao had approached the IVF experts at the nursing home late last year, who de-cided to help the couple.

"I am very happy. God has answered our prayers," Mangayamma told reporters after the delivery.Her husband Raia Rao and other family members celebrated the moment by distributing sweets.

Umashankar said they went ahead with the pro-cess after a team of doctors conducted various tests and found that she is fit to become pregnant.

Mangayamma conceived in the very first cycle of the IVF procedure. Subsequently, three teams were formed to monitor her general health, nutrition and cardiac health, he said, "Ten doctors worked for nine months to keep a close watch on her health. The regular scans revealed that there are no compli-cations," said the doctor.
