Urdu Congress calls for popularising science

CITY BUREAU, HYDERABAD

A two-day National Urdu Science Congress 2019 concluded recently at Maulana Azad National Urdu University (MANUU) with a call to popularise science.

Nine technical sessions witnessed more than 50 paper presenters from different parts of the country.

Dr. Mohammad Aslam Parvaiz, Vice-Chancellor, MANUU and brain behind the initiative, described the effort as an attempt to promote and propagate popular science.

Urdu Science Congress successfully persuaded few young writers to write on popular science. There were nine such first time paper presenters in the Congress.

MANUU’s Centre for Promotion of Knowledge in Urdu (CPKU) and School of School of Sciences jointly organised the Congress.

Dr Qazi Siraj Azhar (Michigan University), Dr. Abdul Moiz Shams also addressed the valedictory. Dr. Abid Moiz, Consultant, CPKU and Convenor of the Congress presented a report.

A special session was dedicated to celebrate 25 years of Urdu monthly Magazine Science. A unique book on “Eye and Urdu Poetry” compiled by Dr. Abdul Moiz Shams was also released.

Hyderabad: A three-day workshop on “Usages of Social Media Tools for Future Media” ended today with leading experts from the field of journalism describing it as a potential challenge to the conventional and corporate media. However, they advised caution in the usage of information received from the sources. If used judiciously, will be helpful in becoming a good journalist, they opined.

The workshop was organized by the Department of Mass Communication & Journalism, Maulana Azad National Urdu University (MANUU).

Famous Television journalist Mr. Shams Tahir Khan (Aaj Tak) addressed the valedictory as the chief guest. Referring to the widespread discontent about the deteriorating media standards especially with regard to television channels, he asked the audience, who is responsible for this? If you don’t like any channel you should not view it, he suggested. Otherwise, you are supporting the deterioration. Mere complaining is a sign of weakness, he remarked.

Mr. Satish Jacob, Senior Broadcast Journalist in his presidential remarks regarded social media and its numerous application as a treasure house of information. This will indeed help the budding journalists, he said.

Mr. Pankaj Pachori, Editor Go News, the media partner of the workshop revealed that same module which was used during a workshop in Harvard University was provided to MANUU students. He expressed satisfaction over the level of involvement and participation by the students. Mr. Mohammed Azam Shahid (Bengaluru) remarked that journalists with a proper understanding of ethics are badly needed in today’s media world. Prof. Sanjay Dwivedi, Bhopal dismissed the effectiveness of social media and questioned its credibility. Mr. Amir Haque, Resident Editor, Times Now (Lucknow) advised the students to focus on optimum utilization of the resources available at University. He described social media as a future challenge to corporate media. Mr. Khaled Shahbaz and Ms. Sadhika Tiwari also spoke. Earlier, Mr. Ehtesham Ahmed Khan, HoD and Dean welcomed the Guest and presented a report on the workshop. Mr. Tahir Qureshi, Asst. Professor conducted the proceedings and proposed vote of thanks.
